
2. American troops are surprised when they meet the vanguard of Lord Charles Cornwallis’ army, and form into line of battle.

3. A determined British bayonet charge causes the untrained militia to retreat, many without firing a shot.

4. General Johann DeKalb, with a small group of troops from Maryland and Delaware, makes a determined stand, but he is mortally wounded.

5. After capturing Gates’ supply wagons, Tarleton pursues the routed Americans to Hanging Rock.

6. General Gates, fleeing in the first wave of retreating troops, rides 60 miles all the way back to Charlotte Town, North Carolina. He would be replaced by General Nathanael Greene, Commander for the Southern Department.